If there was any such thing as a good trust, (which there isn't) it ought to go to get rid of the scores of bad ones.

The loyalty of the Boston Herald, Republican, is coming under suspicion. It urges Hanna to keep on at his speech-making.

If Gov. Roosevelt was in earnest in his attacks on the New York Ice Trust would he have gone off a couple thousand miles to sass it?

The city of Los Angeles, Cal., wouldn't have a new census taken for anything. The one last taken gives it double the population it had in 1890.

Mark Twain is on his way back to this country, to remain. He says he isn't coming back "for his health," but to get rid of some of the lumbago he acquired in England.

The New York Tribune heads an article "More Light on The New Bryan." Turn it on. Bryan can stand all the light you can turn on him. The more he is illuminated the better he shows.

The New York Tribune says: "Bryan lost his hat while campaigning in North Dakota last week." Roosevelt lost his head while campaigning in Colorado, and precipitated a melee at Victor.

The wave of prosperity seems to have struck the Fifth Avenue Bank, of New York, controlled by Russell Sage, which a few days ago declared a quarterly dividend of 20 per cent. and an extra of 5 per cent. The stockholders in that bank have "full dinner pails."

The natural gas supply in the Indiana and adjacent region is becoming rapidly exhausted. It is not more than one-third as great now as it was ten years ago. Then its heating power was equivalent to 15,000,000 tons of coal, now to about 5,400,000 tons.

Uncle Sam shouldn't be too hard in dunning the Sultan for that little $90,000. The Sultan has a large number of wives to provide for. He is so run that he can't pay his hired help, so the Turkish Minister at Madrid had to quit because he couldn't get his pay.

The last lie about Bryan getting a big sum of money, $150,000, for having the silver plank stuck in the Kansas City platform, is a resuscitation substantially of that exploded lie invented in 1896, about Bryan being in the pay of the silver mine owners. These liars should try to strike on something new.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

Wilmington Merchants' Association Ended Its Third Year of Existence.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS HELD.

Reports from Officers Were Highly Satisfactory and Indicative of a Healthy Growth—Col. W. A. Johnson Re-elected President.

The third annual meeting of the Wilmington Merchants' Association was held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the rooms of the Association in the Seaboard Air Line building. Col. W. A. Johnson, the president, was in attendance upon the meeting in his official capacity and 77 out of 130 members were represented either in person or by proxy. The meeting was devoted principally to the election of officers for the ensuing year and the hearing of the annual reports of officers, all of which were very gratifying and especially pleasing to members of the organization, who have every reason to felicitate themselves upon the accomplishments during the past year, which have been decidedly an improvement over the two years preceding.

The report of Col. Johnson was verbal, but it was interesting and full of glad tidings for Association members. He traced the work of the body from its formation to the present and told of the great things that it had done for members.

The report of the secretary, Mr. P. Heinsberger, was also very comprehensive and gratifying to members of the organization. Barring the figures which have to do with the inside working of the Association, the report was as follows:

Col. Wm. A. Johnson, President of the Merchants' Association.

DEAR SIR—I have the honor to submit my third annual report for the year 1899-1900. The Merchants' Association of Wilmington was organized in September, 1897. The association began its third year with a membership of 132, of which fifteen have gone out of business and seven resigned. You begin the fourth year with 110, and three honorary members. The income last year from membership and dues amounted to $764.47. Forty firms have joined your association during the third year. You have an income of $60 a month, and an expense of $55.30.

The collection made during the year through this office amounts to $2,133, and between seven and eight thousand dollars have been collected through the use of our letter blanks by the members. I am told by members of this association that many of their customers who formerly ran "long winded" accounts now pay for cash. Besides its regular business, the Merchants' Association gives much deliberate attention to public measures of local and general nature. Its conservative treatment of such questions has secured for it a marked recognition and influential consideration. We issue a monthly report, which is strictly private, and for the use of members only, showing the work done by your secretary, also the report of meetings, showing the work done by your directors. Seventy-one firms have received collections direct through this office, and in this connection it is but just and pardonable to bear public testimony to the intelligent, business like administration which your board of directors has given to the affairs of your association. The duties, which are many and considerable, have been performed in a manner which betokens fidelity to the trust and interest in the work which devolved upon it.

Very respectfully,
P. HEINSBERGER, Secretary.

The reading of the secretary's report elicited much favorable comment upon the year's work of the Association and its possibilities for the future. This year the secretary collected, with moderate cost to members, the amount of $8,133.00, and during the three years of its existence the total amount of collections has been $16,725.25. It was shown that a much better result could have been attained, had all members availed themselves of the agency. The very comprehensive records kept by the secretary show that only 71 out of 130 members furnished the secretary with claims for collection. All the claims collected were usually what are classed as "bad accounts." The monthly reports furnished members were also shown to have greatly benefitted members in helping them to determine to whom to extend credit.

Those members present yesterday afternoon discussed the workings of the Association in detail and the enthusiasm was great, each member pledging himself to work for greater results in the future. Those who participated in the discussion were: Messrs. W. E. Springer, Sol. Bear, J. H. Thomas, M. W. Jacobi, W. E. Worth, B. W. Hicks, J. F. Garrell, George R. French and others.

Mr. Worth, chairman of the committee on a better collection law which was appointed several months ago, read a letter which he stated he would address to other commercial bodies in the State and attempt to secure their co-operation in a petition to the Legislature to correct by an equitable and constitutional law the present collection process, which is shown to be very defective by the "homestead" feature in it. Mr. Worth in his letter points out the need of such a law and asks for suggestions and ideas anent the question.

The Auditing Committee of the Association composed of Messrs. J. H. Thomas and R. W. Hicks reported that an examination of the secretary and treasurer's books showed them correct and in good shape.

A nominating committee was appointed as follows: Messrs. W. E. Worth, J. H. Thomas and R. W. Hicks. Upon the committee's report, Mr. Geo. R. French was requested to cast the vote unanimously for the following members of a new Board of Directors for the ensuing year: Wm. A. Johnson, M. W. Jacobi, George R. French, W. E. Springer, Wm. E. Worth, B. Solomon, DeWit C. Love, John F. Garrell, J. H. Thomas, R. W. Hicks, A. B. Skelding.

Board of Directors Met.

After the meeting of members of the Association, the Board of Directors met and elected officers for the ensuing year as follows:

President—Col. W. A. Johnson.
Vice President—M. W. Jacobi.
Secretary and Treasurer—P. Heinsberger.

Col. Johnson's re-election is for the fourth consecutive year, and despite his declination of the office for a fourth term, he was, upon motion of Mr. George R. French, elected unanimously. The selection of Mr. Jacobi as vice president and of Mr. Heinsberger as secretary and treasurer was also unanimous upon motion of Messrs. Hicks and Garrell, respectively. All the new officers responded in terms of deep appreciation of the honor conferred.

DR. PRICE'S RESIGNATION TENDERED.

Has Resigned the Office of Coroner on Account of Removal from the City.

One of the most important matters which would have come up before the Board of County Commissioners at the meeting which had to be postponed yesterday afternoon, was the resignation of Dr. Richard J. Price as coroner of the county, which has been in the hands of the clerk to the board for several days.

STAR readers will remember that several weeks ago Dr. Price successfully passed an examination before the U. S. Board of Medical Examiners at Fortress Monroe for an appointment in the army as surgeon and he has tendered his resignation so as to be able to respond at once to any order from the department. The STAR is certain that the county will lose one of its most competent and diligent officials, but at the same time it congratulates Dr. Price upon the compliment included in an appointment as surgeon in the army.

Dr. W. W. Harriss is at present acting as coroner.

FUNERAL SUNDAY MORNING.

Remains of Rev. T. P. Ricaud Laid to Rest in Oakdale Cemetery.

The funeral service over the remains of the late Rev. T. P. Ricaud was held Sunday morning at 11 o'clock from Grace Methodist Church. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. J. N. Cole, who made a splendid talk from the text, "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life." He applied the text appropriately to the life of the deceased and held him up as an example of a good, Christian man. There was an unusually large attendance upon the service.

The following composed the choir which rendered the hymns: Miss Nora Scott, Mrs. W. W. Hodges, Miss Minnie Perdew, Dr. W. C. Galloway, Mr. W. W. Hodges and Mr. R. B. Clowe.

The following gentlemen acted as pall bearers: Honorary, Messrs. R. J. Jones and Samuel Northrop; active, Messrs. E. S. Martin, T. O. Bunting, E. K. Bryan, H. P. West, H. M. Foard and W. H. Yopp. The interment was in Oakdale cemetery.

Davis, J. C. Angel, R. B. Mason, Swift Boatwright, E. S. Battle, Fred Dick, R. Bradley, H. H. McIlhenny, H. B. Peschau, W. J. Bellamy, T. H. Wright, P. J. Thomas, F. H. Stedman, G. L. Morton, H. L. Hunt, F. S. Westbrook.

Committee to Select Pastor.

At the close of the service at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday morning, which was conducted by Rev. John W. Paxton, of Danville, Va., a congregational meeting was held, presided over by Mr. Paxton, at which a committee of seven was appointed to select a pastor upon the unanimous endorsement of which the congregation agrees to call. The committee consists of two elders, two deacons and three members of the congregation at large as follows: Messrs. B. F. Hall and C. H. Robinson, from the elders; Messrs. W. A. Riach and W. M. Cumming, from the deacons; Messrs. Henry Savage, W. E. Worth and W. J. Crosswell from the congregation.

Female Preacher.

Miss Nellie Henry, of Gainesville, Fla., occupied the pulpit of the Second Advent Church Sunday night and an immense congregation heard the sermon. She made a clear, forcible talk and used very convincing arguments. There was nothing unusual in the looks of the female preacher and neither was there anything to suggest the new woman. Miss Henry conducted a ladies' meeting yesterday afternoon.

CAPT. BENJ. A. HALLETT

Died Saturday Night at Mount Olive, N. C. Funeral Here To-day.

Capt. B. A. Hallett, for a long number of years a resident of Wilmington, a part of the time a member of the firm of Martin & Hallett and for the balance of his residence here, an employe of the Navassa Guano Company, died Saturday night at Mount Olive, N. C., in the 65th year of his age, after an illness of only two or three days.

The remains were brought to Wilmington Sunday morning and the funeral will be held from the First Presbyterian church this morning at 10 o'clock. Mr. Allen P. Hallett, a son of the deceased and a practicing attorney of Northport, N. Y., arrived yesterday evening to attend the funeral, as did also his sister-in-law, Mrs. A. H. Slocomb, of Fayetteville.

Capt. Hallett came to Wilmington from the North when a young man and has remained here ever since until six or eight years ago, when he suffered a stroke of paralysis, which rendered him so feeble that he decided to change his home to Mount Olive with the hope that the change would benefit him. He conducted a small farm near Mount Olive and in the Fall and Winter bought cotton for Messrs. Alexander Sprunt & Son, of this city.

Capt. Hallett was married twice; first to Miss Laura M. Taylor, of Fayetteville, a sister of Capt. James H. and Mr. C. L. Taylor and Mrs. W. P. Elliott, of this city and a second time to Miss Emily Peck, of Wilmington, who preceded him to the grave several years ago. Capt. Hallett was a gallant soldier during the civil war and was second lieutenant in Company G, Eighteenth North Carolina regiment. His death is mourned by a wide circle of friends and relatives.

County Board of School Directors.

Only routine business and the auditing of the usual monthly accounts engaged yesterday afternoon's regular monthly meeting of the County Board of School Directors, over which Chairman W. A. Johnson presided, and upon which Capt. Donald MacRae and Prof. Washington Catlett, the superintendent, were in attendance. Prof. Catlett reported that all the county schools were in a flourishing condition and that he believed there was never an abler corps of teachers in the county public school system. The various institutions in the county are well attended and the prospects are highly favorable to a successful year.

Y. M. C. A. Night School.

The night school of the Y. M. C. A. under the able leadership of Mr. Andrew J. Howell, Jr., opened last night with very flattering prospects. The number of students enrolled on the first night is larger than usual and there is a larger list than usual of those who will join the classes later. Capt. Durant, of Howell's Military Academy, will assist in the instruction and better opportunities are offered in this important branch of Y. M. C. A. work this year than ever before.

Gone to Texas.

Rev. Milton A. Barber and family left yesterday afternoon for San Marcos, Tex., where Rev. Mr. Barber becomes pastor of St. Mark's Parish. He was until recently rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church of this city.

THE ALGONQUIN RETURNED.

Arrived in Port Yesterday from Galveston—Captain Willey Interviewed Concerning the Situation.

The United States revenue cutter Algonquin arrived in port yesterday from Galveston, after a months' absence. She sailed for Galveston September 11th, and arrived at Mobile on the 17th, where she took on supplies and clothing for the storm sufferers. She reached Galveston on September 20th. The supplies were delivered and Capt. Willey reported to Adjutant General Scurry, who was in command of the State troops, and told him that the cutter was at his command, but everything had been gotten under such excellent headway, and owing to the deep draught of the Algonquin, it was decided that she would be of no appreciable service to them, and hence the department ordered her return, and she left Galveston September 26th, arriving at Southport Friday night, October 5th.

When asked about the situation at Galveston, Capt. Willey replied:

"No pen can describe the wreck; it is absolutely appalling, but the people have put their shoulders to the wheel and will come out all right. The most conservative estimate as to the loss of life in Galveston alone is ten thousand and it will reach eighteen or twenty thousand throughout that entire section. The day we left 64 dead bodies were taken from the ruins of a brick church. Of all the churches and public buildings only two are left standing and, strange to say, only two gambling houses were badly damaged and a large brewery was turning out its full capacity the first day after the water subsided.

"A belt of ground along the Gulf shore, about eight blocks in width and four miles long, was perfectly denuded of buildings of any kind. In that space over three thousand buildings were swept away. Debris from the wrecked houses was washed up and formed an obstruction 20 to 30 feet high around the boundary named and acted as a breakwater and saved the remainder of the city from even worse destruction. The principal loss of life was among the poorer classes of people. It was the saddest wreck I ever saw."

Lieut. F. W. Smith, formerly on the Algonquin, but now with the Galveston, was on duty when the storm struck the bay and Capt. Willey says there is hardly any doubt but that he saved the vessel from destruction and has merited much praise for the admirable and valiant manner in which he assisted in rescuing many persons from destruction and that he will be rewarded for his bravery and level-headedness.

Second Lieutenant O. G. Haines, recently on the Onondaga, joined the Algonquin at Charleston and is now on permanent duty on her.

The Algonquin's station from now on will be at Wilmington. She will go on a short cruise in about a week.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OPENED.

Fully Two Thousand Pupils in All Were Enrolled—Bright Prospects for Successful Year's Work.

The city public schools opened yesterday morning with a larger attendance than on any previous year and the prospects are exceptionally bright for an unusually successful year's work. Every teacher was in her place and the work of a new scholastic year was entered upon without a hitch. Superintendent Blair expressed himself as being very much gratified at the flattering opening and the celerity with which the entire system has gotten under way.

Although it was not possible to say exactly how many children were enrolled in all the schools, it is probable that the number will easily reach two thousand. There were 175 scholars enrolled at the High School. It is the largest opening in the history of the school. At the Hemenway School there were 561, which is also larger than ever before. The attendance at the Union School was about the same as last year with 641 pupils enrolled.

The colored schools opened with gratifyingly large numbers and will also exceed last year's attendance. The class room work in all the schools will begin regularly to-day.

Associated Charities.

The regular quarterly meeting of the board of directors of the Associated Charities was held yesterday morning and the usual routine matters were discussed. The board decided to change the time of meeting from the second Monday to the second Tuesday in the months of January, April, July and October. The members present at the meeting yesterday were Rev. Dr. C. S. Blackwell, president; Rev. Dr. G. D. Bernheim, Rev. Dr. Robert Strange, Rev. A. D. McClure, Col. A. M. Waddell, Mr. J. C. Stevenson, Mr. P. Pearsall and Miss Carrie Price, secretary.

A MAGNIFICENT PLAY TO-NIGHT.

Richmond Dispatch Has Nothing But Praise for "Zaza"—Seats on Sale.

To-night Charles Frohman's production of David Belasco's dramatization of "Zaza" will be presented for the first time in this city. In fact, the great play is now on its first American tour, and under the same direction as that which so successfully toured the large cities. Running in New York city for 250 nights it was crowded to the doors each performance. Of the play and impression made in Richmond the following is clipped from the Dispatch of that city:

"'Zaza' is a strong play. Its production at the Academy last night was witnessed by probably the largest audience of this season, and that it made a marked impression was manifest.

"The first act is a somewhat novel one. It takes the audience behind the scene of a concert hall and gives them some insight as to what goes on among the 'artists,' as they make ready for the footlights."

Seats now on sale.

C., will open in the Gaylord branch store with a full line of dry goods and notions. In order to undertake the new business he will not find it necessary to close either of his other two stores.

Judge Augustus M. Moore.

Judge Augustus M. Moore, of the Eastern District Criminal Court, returned Friday from Baltimore to his home at Greenville, N. C., and yesterday morning opened Craven County Criminal Court at Newbern. WHY NOT TELL THE TRUTH?

A few days ago the Washington Post, disgusted with the systematic efforts to deceive the American people as to the war in the Philippines, asked "Why not tell the truth?" The direct although perhaps somewhat blunt answer to this inquiry would be because the truth wouldn't suit the purposes of the administration in its land-grabbing war upon the Filipinos. To have a pretext to justify its war of "criminal aggression" it charges the Filipinos with beginning the war by firing upon our troops, when the official reports show that the first hostile shot was fired by an American soldier, that the first man killed was a Filipino soldier (shot by that American soldier), and that the first attack was made by American troops on the Filipino camp from which some shots had been fired, provoked by the killing of that soldier. The fact is that in spite of the official reports a systematic plan has been resorted to and persisted in to place the responsibility for the inauguration of hostilities upon the Filipinos. This has been so often asserted from high sources, and been so often reiterated by members of Congress in their speeches, by the press and stump-speakers, that a great many people believe it. In his letter of acceptance Mr. McKinley, in justification for waging war upon the Filipinos, said:

"When the city of Manila was taken August 13th, the Filipinos took no part in the attack, but came following in with a view to looting the city, and were only prevented from doing so by our forces preventing them from entering."

It would not be courteous to accuse Mr. McKinley of deliberate misrepresentation, but as this Philippine war has been from the beginning waged under false pretences and justified by misrepresentation and deliberate perversion of the facts, there would be nothing violent in the suspicion that this is a deliberate misrepresentation by Mr. McKinley, who regards it as a political necessity. In addition to the official reports to which we have alluded, we have the testimony of men who were on the ground, some of whom were in the army and fought with the Filipinos, to prove that it is a misrepresentation. The President quotes this extract from a report of his first Philippine commission and thus gives it his practical endorsement, and in as much as he quotes it as a justification of his action becomes responsible for it.

Mr. Lewis Fielding Poindexter, of Baltimore, was at the time mentioned a soldier in the Philippines. When he read this statement in the letter of acceptance he wrote a letter to the New York Post, the following extracts from which we clip from the Norfolk Landmark:

"I happened to be a member of the Second Oregon United States Volunteers, the first regiment to enter Manila on the day of its capture, and, to my personal knowledge, the casualties that day, August 13, 1898, among the seven or eight thousand Filipinos who were engaged in aiding our land forces in the attack upon Manila were considerably greater than those of the Americans and the Spaniards combined. I also know that for six weeks previous to the attack on Manila our forces (whose base of supplies was then at Cavite), including detachments from the First California, the Fourteenth Regiment Regulars, the Tenth Pennsylvania, and the Second Oregon, occupied the same intrenchments with the Filipinos, and, day and night, under a pouring rain, in water and mud up to our knees, under the personal direction of Aguinaldo himself, we fought the Spaniards together.

"It is a well-known fact that the Filipinos were so impatient to take Manila that had not Merritt and Dewey moved against the city when they did, the natives would have undertaken the attack alone.

* * * * * *

"It may be asked why my statement should carry any weight against that of the Philippine Commission. This is my answer:

"I was on the ground and the Commission was not. The statement as quoted in President McKinley's letter is third-hand. Not only were the Commissioners not in the Philippines August 13, 1898, but they did not arrive there until the latter part of the following March."

This shows that the Filipinos were in it at the taking of Manila, and that they did not follow to loot.

But there is an unwritten chapter of this attack on Manila, unwritten as far as the public is concerned, which gives ground for the belief entertained by many that the attack upon and surrender of Manila was a put up job, a mere stage play, in which the Spaniards, after a theatrical defense, were to surrender to the American troops. The commanders of the Spanish garrison knew that the fall of the city was inevitable, that they could not hold it against a combined attack of the United States fleet and the land forces of Americans and Filipinos, and therefore they decided to surrender, but wanted some protection against the Filipino soldiers when they had so enraged and from whom they expected vengeance in retaliation. This is one of the reasons why the Filipinos were kept in the background as much as practicable, and the United States troops pushed to the front. The capitulation having been to them they, of course, were masters of the situation and could insist upon taking the city and its captured soldiers under their protection. But as a matter of fact the Filipino soldiers co-operated with our army in that attack, but they were purposely kept in the background as much as possible, the real reason being withheld from them. The American commanders were playing false and deceiving the Filipinos then, as they afterwards did, playing to take the advantage of them, which they afterwards did, and doubtless this was done under instructions from Washington, which also hastened the attack on Manila, to take it before the protocol was signed, because the protocol stipulated that things should remain in statu quo, and under the statu quo the American flag would not be flying over Manila.

But the Filipinos were in it all the same as far as they were permitted to be.

A THRIFTY STATESMAN.

Self interest is one of the potent inspirations in the war against the Philippines and in the demand for a large standing army. In one of his speeches in Minnesota Mr. Bryan gave an object lesson to illustrate this in the following extract, in which one of the thrifty Republican statesmen figures:

"If you will look up the record you will find the Republican member of Congress who stands at the head of the Army Committee of the House of Representatives is the President of the Philippine Lumber and Development Company, and they have already gobbled up a lot of lumber lands and taken control of the improvement in the Philippine Islands.

"In their prospectus they say the labor question 'is solved. There is plenty of Chinese labor.' By reading their prospectus you can see why it is that some people want a large army and imperialism, and while it is a good thing for those doing the developing, it is a bad thing for the people who furnish sons for the army and the people who pay the taxes."

We have no doubt that an investigation of the various concessions secured would show the names of other Republican statesmen, and other "patriots," who are protesting against the "scuttle" policy, the "pulling down of the flag," &c., and loud in their demands for a large army and navy to enable this country to maintain its position as a "world power."

The American flag had hardly been raised over Cuba and Porto Rico before there was a rush of concession pursuers, who had finally to be checked by orders from the War Department because some of them were getting ahead of the gentlemen in Washington, who were in the ring and thought they had a right to the choice grabs. If the rush hasn't been quite as active in the Philippines it is because it isn't quite as practicable on account of the disturbed condition of affairs over there. But the thrifty have gotten in their work where they could.

Candidate McKinley raised a crop of potatoes on his farm near Canton. They were good potatoes, too. Good enough to bring fifteen cents a bushel more than other potatoes. He should stick to potato-raising, even if he does it by proxy.

ALWAYS FOR FREE SILVER.

One of the objections by the so-called "Sound Money" men to Wm. J. Bryan as a Presidential candidate is that he believes in free silver coinage. But so did Mr. McKinley, the only difference between the two on that question being that Mr. McKinley following the dictation of his party leaders, who were controlled by the gold handlers, has changed, while Bryan stuck to his convictions. Ten years ago, Mr. McKinley was a champion of free silver as will be seen by the following reply to an inquiry from a farmers' organization in Ohio when he was running for Congress in 1890:

"I have always been in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of the silver product of the United States, and have so voted, on at least two occasions during the time I have been in public life. I was not willing to extend this coinage to the silver of the world, and open our mints to them without charge, as proposed by gentlemen on the floor of the House. My purpose was to secure immediate legislation that would credit and dignify our silver coin. I believe the law which we enacted this session will accomplish that result.

"It utilizes every dollar's worth of the silver product of the United States, and even more. The value of that legislation has already been apparent by the enhanced value it gives to silver. You may remember as indicating my position upon this subject that I voted to pass the silver bill in the Forty-fifth or Forty-sixth Congress over the veto of President Hayes.

"On the subject of trusts I have already expressed my views by my vote on the Sherman bill, which became a law. With me political and economic questions are a conviction, and while I may not always be right, I am always willing to let those whose suffrage I seek know exactly what they are."

He had "always been in favor of the free coinage of American silver," and gave as a reason for it that free coinage kept its value up, which is as true now as it was then. This is one of the contentions of the free coinage men to-day, that if silver be rehabilitated and made a full money metal without discrimination, it will have a coin value instead of value simply as a commercial commodity. Deprive gold of its minting privilege, as silver has been, and the value of gold bullion would fall just as the value of silver bullion has fallen, since discriminated against in the mints. There isn't a word that Mr. McKinley says in this reply that isn't as applicable to silver now as it was when written.

HOAR'S DENUNCIATION.

Senator Hoar and Senator Mason were both vigorous and relentless opponents and denouncers of McKinley's war of "criminal aggression" in the Philippines, and both are supporting McKinley for re-election when he is pledged to carry out that war to the bitter end. There could have been no more withering arraignment of that policy than was made by Senator Hoar in that notable speech in the Senate when among other things he said:

"The words justice, freedom righteousness seemed to be disappearing from our vocabulary. * * * * * When hostilities broke out, February 5, 1899, we had no occupancy of and no title of any kind to any portion of the Philippine territory, except the town and bay of Manila. Everything else was in the peaceful possession of the inhabitants. In such a condition of things, Mr. President, international law speaks to us with its awful mandate. It pronounces your proposed action sheer usurpation and robbery. You have no better title, according to the law of nations, to reduce this people to subjection than you have to subjugate Mexico, or Haiti, or Belgium, or Switzerland. You have no right, according to the law of nations, to obtain by purchase or acquisition sovereignty over a people which is not actually exercised by the country which undertakes to convey it or yield it."

* * * * * *

"What kind of Americanism, what kind of patriotism, what kind of love of liberty is it to say that we are to turn our guns on that patriot people and wrest from them the freedom that was almost within their grasp, and hold these islands for our own purposes, in subjection, and by right of conquest, because the American flag ought not to be hauled down where it has once floated, or for the baser and viler motive that we can make a few dollars a year out of their trade? Mr. President, that is the doctrine of purest ruffianism and tyranny."

Mr. Hoar was talking as a Senator then; he was expressing his honest sentiments in opposition to the policy of the administration, and the majority of his party, and in the most expressive and vigorous language at his command. But now he is talking as a politician, who, whipped in by the leaders, stultifies himself for party success on the miserable pretence that Bryan advised the ratification of the Paris treaty, and couldn't put a stop to the war if elected. The trouble with Hoar is that, when it comes to the scratch, he can't forget that he is a party man long enough to be a patriot.

Prince Tuan is down now and they are all jumping on him. It is rough on a fellow who gets down in other countries as well as in China. A little while ago Mr. Tuan was a boss bruiser among the Boxers, but he is a regular Jim Corbett now.

DON'T COUGH

Stop it with Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil.

A little coughing is nothing—the tickling, that makes you cough once, is some dust; not the least harm. You scratch an itch, and forget it. This cough is scratching an itch.

But the cough, that hangs on and comes back, is the sign of an itch that hangs on and comes back. There is something that makes that itch.

Inflammation: a germ perhaps; it's alive; like a seed in moist warm ground; it will grow if you let it, especially in children.

Greenville Reflector: On Friday the Bank of Greenville paid out in round numbers about $30,000 for the day's business, most of it being for tobacco.

—Fayetteville Observer: Mrs. Mary McArtan, relict of Duncan McArtan, died at her home near Swanns September 28th, after a few hours illness. She was a native of Jura, Argyishire, Scotland, and emigrated to this country with her husband in 1847. She was 85 years of age.

— Greensboro Record: Hon. J. C. Buxton, of Winston, Democratic nominee for Congress from the Eighth district, who was in the city to day, says he will defeat Mr. Blackburn by at least 1,000 votes, if not 1,500. Mr. Buxton has canvassed several of the upper counties in his district, and from what he knows, together with the reports received, says he feels sure of his ground.

— Gastonia Gazette: Deputy Collector D. A. Kanipe captured two distiler on last Friday. One near the South Carolina line below Kings Mountain. The other at Kings Creek. Both were large plants and well equipped with the best copper stills. He secured 9 gallons of whiskey with one and about 2,000 gallons of beer. One belonged to Andy McCarter and the other to George Sellars.

— Raleigh News and Observer: Tuesday night about 12 o'clock Arthur Purcell, a negro, was killed at Floral College, near Maxton by another negro named Williams. The motive was probably jealousy. Williams shot Purcell from ambush while the latter was waltzing with a girl for whose favor they were rivals. Wilat once fled but is said to have been captured Saturday afternoon.

— Stanly Enterprise: The mills here have resumed night work, but it is feared the present water supply will not s and the strain. We are continually reminded of what a blessing the artesian well has been to our people this summer during the water famine that has struck our place. There are only a few families in town that have not depended on the artesian well to some extent. People are inconvenienced greatly in getting the water as it is, but it has undoubtedly prevented a lot of sickness and death.

—— Monday evening (1st inst.) about 4:30 o'clock Frank Swaringen, who lived near Porter Station, six miles below here, was shot and killed by one Will Hinson, a brother to Calvin Hinson. Swaringen was running a government distillery, and had Hinson employed as distiller. The trouble is alleged to have started several days ago when revenue officers seized five gallons of whiskey. Bad blood is said to have existed between the men for several days. It is said that Hinson kept whiskey in small covers in the still and treated his friends when they came around, contrary to Swaringen's orders. Monday Swaringen, on discovering three pints at the same place, had his son Willis to remove it. This angered Hinson and he immediately sought Swaringen. A quarrel ensued, the outcome of which was that five pistol shots were fired, four balls taking effect in the body of the latter, who lived only an hour and a half after the occurrence. Sheriff McCain arrested Hinson at his home. He was given a preliminary hearing and committed to jail to await trial at next term of court.

——The Republican campaign collectors doubtless look with wrinkled brows on the announcement that J. Pierpont Morgan has paid $8,500 for a Scotch collie, in addition, no doubt, to the cost of transportation. By quotations heretofore established in some localities of this country this makes one dog worth about four thousand votes; or, according to the arithmetic of Thomas B. Reed, about the same number of Asiatic "yellow bellies."—Cincinnati Enquirer, Dem.

"There is but one small chance to save your life and that is through an operation," was the awful prospect set before Mrs. I. B. CURRENT COMMENT.

—— Senator Hanna seems to evince a desire to eliminate all of the issues from the campaign. There are no trusts, he says, nor is there any such thing as imperialism. Will he go on and say that the "full dinner pail" is a myth, and that free silver is a figment of the imagination?—Savannah News, Dem.

—— Here is another argument against imperialism. It is stated by scientists that one of the results of our war in the Philippines will be the importation into this country of many new and strange parasites, germs and microbes, not to mention diseases that were never heard of before on this side of the Pacific. All of these are in addition to the war tax.—Atlanta Journal, Dem.

COTTON MARKETS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, October 8.—A frost scare took possession of the cotton market this morning and prices advanced seventeen to twenty-eight points, including an advance of three to ten points which occurred on the opening call. The shorts showed a good deal of uneasiness, which was increased by the fact that English cables reported an advance of five to six and a half points in futures. This, however, was attributed not so much to frost fears as to more promising indications respecting a demand from spinners. Still another stimulating factor was a current belief that Wednesday would turn up a bullish monthly crop report. Trading was not particularly active and there were several periods of pronounced weakness under selling to secure profits. Wall street was a heavy buyer of January and March cotton; the South was also a large buyer, while Liverpool sold at the opening but later bought on finding our market so easily influenced by the indications of low temperature, a cold wave having reached down into Northern New Mexico and Oklahoma. Receipts were about as expected. A heavy demand for cotton goods was reported. In the afternoon the shorts were the principal support of the market, which closed steady at a net advance of ten to nineteen points.

SICKENING CARGOES.

SUFFERINGS CAUSED TO SAILORS AT SEA BY THE SHIP'S LOAD.

Coffee Is Bad Enough, and Pine Lumber Is Still Worse, but the Fumes From Warm, Moist Sugar Are Enough to Kill an Ordinary Man.

It was in one of the little river front eating houses in Brooklyn frequented by sailors from the coasters which are loading or unloading. A big, powerful sailor who looked as if he had never in his life known what it was to be sick for a day entered and took a chair opposite a longshoreman who had already ordered and was waiting for his dinner. As the sailor was looking over the bill of fare with that critical and hesitant eye that characterizes Jack ashore from a long voyage with a discriminating sea appetite upon him, the waiter brought in a cup of steaming coffee and set it down before the longshoreman. As the odor of it reached the sailor's nostrils he bent upon the cup a gaze of concentrated disgust and hatred. Then he turned deadly pale, rose from his seat and staggered toward the door.

"Been drinking a little too much for your tonnage, mate?" asked the proprietor, helping him to the door.

"Haven't had a drop today," said the man huskily. "It's that coffee."

"What's the matter with the coffee?" asked the proprietor angrily. "There ain't any better coffee than that on the river front."

"That's all right," replied the sailor with an effort, "but I just got in off a coffee ship this morning."

"Oh," said the proprietor comprehendingly. "If that's the case, I'll fix you off in the corner, where you'll be all right."

A table was set for him far from the others, and there he ate his dinner in apparent peace. Now, there was in the eating house a landsman of an inquiring turn of mind who failed to understand the wherefore of all this, so he questioned the proprietor, who has been long on the river front and is himself a graduate from before the mast and has sailed in many waters of the world.

"Nothing queer about that," he said in response to the landsman's question. "He's been out on a coffee ship; that's all. He won't want to see or smell coffee for weeks, let alone taste it."

"Do they feed them nothing but coffee on the coffee ships?" asked the landsman in the innocence of his soul.

"Feed 'em? 'Tisn't the feed; it's the smell that knocks 'em. For a week or ten days it isn't bad; it fact, it's rather a pleasant smell, that of the green berry, but after that it begins to get on your mind. In damp weather, if it's a long voyage, it's something terrible.

"There's other cargoes," continued the ex-sailor, "that's just as bad. You might think guano was one of 'em, but it isn't. Guano's Rose of Sharon perfume compared to sugar. Didn't suppose there was any smell to sugar, eh? Well, you take it in a bowl and there ain't. But take a cargo of it and let it steam in a temperature of from 90 to 110, with plenty of damp to work it up, and I'd like to see what you'd think of it then. You get so mortal sick of the sweetness of it, which you smell and taste, too, with every breath, that you'd be glad to fill up with anything that would offset it, even if it was wormwood. I've seen the time I felt as if I could drink a gallon of vinegar flavored with lemon juice at a gulp. That voyage was a sufferer, sure enough. We couldn't live between decks at all, and we all berthed as near the stern rail as we could get and even put out the small boats when it was still and lay in them to get relief.

"When provisions had to be got out of the hold, the cook went down with jute bagging tied over his nose and mouth to keep out the fumes, but after a couple of trips he fainted, and they sent me in. Two descents laid me out. I thought I was going to die. In my time I've seen folks that were tolerable seasick, but all they did was a maiden's sigh to my performances. If it wasn't convulsions, it was so mighty near it that I thought I was gone and felt like I couldn't go too quick to suit myself. They brought me around with lime juice, but it was weeks after landing before I wanted any sweetening in mine.

"The fact is that in the tropics almost any cargo you have kind of tinges existence for you. Oil is pretty tough, particularly petroleum. A man'll dream of petroleum after he's associated with it for a month or so on shipboard. But pine lumber really takes the cake when it fairly gets into everything. I never happened to suffer much from that sort of cargo myself, but I saw a crew that came just as near death from too much pine resin as men can come and pull through.

"We were in port at Rio when a ship came in laden with pine lumber. More than that, the fool of a skipper had let somebody supply him with pine water butts. Well, the resin began to get into the water, and first they knew the crew was pretty well poisoned with it. Then they got so that they couldn't swallow the water at all, or if they did they couldn't hold it down a second. And there wasn't any other water aboard. They were in mighty great danger of dying of thirst with plenty of water aboard just because the old man was new to that kind of voyaging. Rio happened to be the nearest port, and, though it was far out of their course, they put for it as the only chance of saving their lives. I'd hate to see again such a looking lot as they were. They were dried out like mummies and so weak that I don't see how they ever worked the ship at all. When they got in, we thought at first it was black smallpox, they were such fearful looking objects. When they did get sweet water again, they drank till I thought they'd burst, and how they did fight when we tried to get the pannikins away for fear they'd kill themselves! Some of 'em died in the hospital from the effects. I never shipped on a pine loaded ship after seeing that."—New York Sun.

A Happy Day.

Two little London girls who had been sent by the kindness of the vicar's wife to have "a happy day in the country," narrating their experiences on their return, said:

"Oh, yes, mum; we did 'ave a 'appy day. We see two pigs killed and a gentleman buried."

Nothing but Draw and Paint.

Visitor—I hear you've had the celebrated Mr. Abbey, the artist, staying with you down here.

Proprietor of Old Fashioned Inn—Yes, sir; an he be the laziest man I ever come across. He do nothing but dror an paint all day.—Phil May's Album.

The Old Man Had Changed.

A Lancaster county man once came to a Philadelphia portrait painter with a request that he paint a picture of his father. "Very well," said the artist; "have the old gentleman come in when next in town, and I will give him a sitting." The man replied: "He gan't do dot; he is dait."

"Oh, well, then, you have a photograph of him?"

"No; I don't got no fottograf of him eider."

"Well, how do you expect me to paint the portrait of your father when I cannot see him and have nothing to give me an idea of his appearance?"

"Vell," he replied, "I dinked maybe of I dolt you aboul him you gan baint him from dot."

"All right," said the artist, "describe him."

"Vell, my fadder was not so dall und not so short; he vas not fat und not so din." And so the honest fellow proceeded to describe his father as he recalled him.

The artist undertook to paint the picture, and in due course it is completed, and the Lancaster county man comes in to view the results of the artist's efforts. As the canvas is disclosed he gazes long and reverently upon the picture of his departed parent. Then he feelingly remarks: "Yah, dot is mine fadder! Mine fadder vat I loafed so much! But, ach himmel, fadder, how you haf changed!"—Philadelphia Times.

TO A SENTIMENTAL MAID.

A life were one long honeymoon
And Cupid always bear,
And all the year a June,
With lovers' hearts pulsating the same tune,
Then might we face the future without trembling, dear,
And all our married life be reckoned as one happy year.

But honeymoons come to an end,
And lovers must face life,
And husbands must attend
To earthly things which with affection blend,
Wherefore it is that in the selfish, sordid strife
The former sweethearts blended are into mere man and wife.

Your sweet lips frame "iconoclast;"
My view your nature shocks.
Would you, deve, life shound last?
Pray, tell me, ere opinion you have passed,
Whence then the joys for you in millinery stocks?
Unless I get a move on, whence your bonnets and your frocks?

—Philadelphia North American.

"TO LOOK AT THE BOOKS."

An Expression That Led the Bookkeeper to Depart In Haste.

A prominent Louisville lawyer who was in the city recently on business told this curious little story one evening while chatting with some friends:

"My pet fad for many years," he said, "has been what is called the 'extending' of books. I select some standard work, preferably a work of history, and begin to collect letters, autographs, pictures, maps, printed matter, documents and anything else obtainable connected with the subject treated. Eventually I have the original book taken apart and rebound with all my supplementary matter, and a single volume is sometimes extended to a dozen. It is a very fascinating hobby, and if I went into details I would never get to my story. What I started out to tell you was this:

"Five or six years ago I was on the train going to Toledo to attend to some legal matters when I fell in with a very agreeable elderly gentleman who turned out to be a furniture manufacturer living in middle Ohio. Something turned the conversation to books, and the old gentleman remarked casually that he was extending a copy of Irving's 'Life of Washington.' By a remarkable coincidence I was just then engaged on exactly the same task myself, and, needless to say, we both became deeply interested. By the time we reached the manufacturer's home town he had persuaded me to stop over and take a look at his library, which, he said, contained several fine specimens of extended books.

"We arrived late in the afternoon, and before going to his house we dropped in at his down town office. A very serious looking, middle aged Scotchman came forward to greet us and was introduced by my friend as the manager of the furniture works. 'I'm going to keep Mr. —— with us for a day or so,' said the old gentleman pleasantly. 'I want him to take a look at my books.' The Scotchman grunted some vague reply, and in a few moments we started for the house.

"I was most hospitably entertained," continued the lawyer, "and found the library intensely interesting, but next day I had to go on to Toledo, and the whole episode eventually faded from my mind. One day last summer, however, it was unexpectedly recalled by a meeting with the old manufacturer himself, whom I bumped into in the corridor of the Planters' House in St. Louis. He recognized me at once, and the first thing he asked was whether I had finished with my copy of 'Washington.'

"Then he took me by the arm and drew me aside. 'I'm very glad I've met you,' he said, 'because I want to tell you of a remarkable affair in which you played unconsciously an important part. Do you remember the details of your little visit to my town?' 'Fairly well,' I replied in surprise. 'Then perhaps you recall meeting the manager at our office?' he continued. 'Certainly,' said I. 'A sour looking Scotchman, with reddish hair.' 'Exactly!' he exclaimed. 'Well, he decamped that night and has never been seen since. We thought he was sick at home for a couple of days, so he got a good start. He was short a trifle over $20,000, but he had covered up his tracks so neatly that I was at a loss to know why he ran away until I received a letter from him posted in Mexico and making a clean breast of the whole affair.

"'It seems that he mistook you for an expert accountant and gathered from some remark I made about looking at my books that I had engaged you to examine the ledgers. Accordingly he took time by the forelock. It was a pretty serious loss,' he added, 'but I regard the incident as providential, because the rascal was then preparing for a big coup, which he would certainly have perfected inside a month. In that case he might have wrecked me.'

"It was a good joke on the Scotchman," said the lawyer, chuckling, "for I don't know any more about bookkeeping and accounts than a wild Hottentot."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Morning Star.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

TUESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 9.

SHOT TWO WOMEN.

Wm. Mott, of Norfolk, Va., Killed Mlle. Alberta and Fatally Wounded Mrs. Steinbauer, at Columbia, Pa.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

COLUMBIA, PA., October 8.—William Mott, of Norfolk, Va., this evening shot and killed Mlle. Alberta, a palmist, with whom he was travelling about the country, and dangerously wounded Mrs. Elizabeth Steinbauer, with whom the couple boarded here. Mlle. Alberta, whose real name was Anna Furlong, was thirty-seven years old; Mott is twenty-nine. Her home is in Chicago. Mott says she has a husband, a hotel man, and son named Brennan living at Bayonne, N. J. Mott met her a year ago at Dover, Delaware. They have been travelling from place to place and for the past two months have had palmistry offices in Lancaster and Columbia. Lately Mott had become very jealous of the woman and this evening, after drinking all day, went to their room and had an altercation with her. Mrs. Steinbauer attempted to pacify them, whereupon Mott began to fire from a 32-calibre revolver. Mrs. Steinbauer fell to the floor with a bullet in her stomach and another in her head and Mlle. Alberta was shot three times in the head and breast. She died instantly. Mrs. Steinbauer was taken to a hospital. Mott surrendered and talked coolly of the murder, regretting that he had shot Mrs. Steinbauer, whom he said he liked, and saying that he had become tired of Mlle. Alberta's fickleness and could stand it no longer.

BRIBERY AND INTIMIDATION.

Republican Managers and Their Methods. Collecting a Large Campaign Fund from Monopolies.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

SALEM, Ills., October 8.—William J. Bryan began his week's work with a speech early to day in this city, his former home. Friends, many of whom had known Mr. Bryan from boyhood, gave him a marked reception.

Mr. Bryan told of the success of the meetings at the other places visited by him, and the enthusiasm with which he was received.

"If the election were held to day," he said, "there is no doubt we would have a majority in the electoral college and on the popular vote. But the Republican managers are now collecting from the monopolies a large campaign fund. They will buy every vote that can be bought. They will coerce every vote that can be coerced. They will intimidate every laboring man who can be intimidated; they will bribe every election judge that can be bribed. They will corrupt every count that can be corrupted. I do not understand how it is possible for the plain every-day Republican to close his eyes to what is going on when he knows that if he aids these influences to carry the election at this time, the same means can be employed to carry other elections when those who are supporting the Republican ticket to-day will be opposing the Republican ticket."

RUSSIANS IN MANCHURIA

Routed the Chinese Army and Occupied the City of Mukden.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

ST. PETERSBURG, October 8.—The Russian general staff has received official dispatches confirming the reported occupation of Mukden.

Lieutenant General Subbevitch entered the city October 1st. He advanced from Old Niu Chwang on September 24th with eleven battalions of infantry, two sotnias of Cossack cavalry and forty guns, and after fighting two engagements routed the Chinese army on September 27th.

Before withdrawing the Chinese looted and fired the city. The Russians captured numerous modern guns and immense stores of war materials.

The Sportsman's Prospective.

All indications point to a season of unexampled sport in the field. The dry Spring saved thousands of young birds from drowning and the covies are large, well grown, and even now good flyers. The season opens in this county on October 15th, but in adjoining counties the sport is prohibited until November 1st, as it should be here, and needful laws will be asked of the next Legislature. "To give an instance of the necessity of some change, take the law on the subject of woodcock, our first bird," said a well known gunner last evening. "They may be shot now from October 15th to March 15th, yet it is known among sportsmen that these birds lay in January and February and hatch in February and March. Thus they are slaughtered in the hatching season. This law should be changed so as to permit their being shot from August 1st to January 1st. The quail season should be shortened and the open season made from November 1st to March 1st. This gives all a chance; birds as well as men. It would insure more sport and many more birds. Four months of shooting is sufficient for any one except an exterminator of game and a pot hunter.

"Next Monday the season will open. The Gun Club is watching closely the movements of those who are defiant of law and any violation will be punished. Patience for one week is all that is asked, then with trusty dog and reliable gun you can introduce yourself to the "brown beauties" and shoot without fear, and the STAR hopes, with success."

CHINESE COURT AFRAID OF ALLIES

All Efforts to Induce Emperor and Empress to Return to Pekin Have Failed.

A NEW POINT OF LOCATION.

Three Hundred Miles Further from Pekin and Strongly Fortified—Americans Will Not Participate in the Expedition to Pao Ting Fu.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The effort to induce the Chinese Imperial court to return to Pekin has failed, after a week's persistent effort on the part of the Powers. News to that effect was brought to the State Department to-day by the Chinese minister, who received it via St. Petersburg from Viceroys Liu Kun Yih and Chang Chih Tung, under date of October 4. Minister Wu received the message last night. It was as follows:

"The departure of their Imperial majesties for Shen Si province was due to the distressing conditions at Tai Yuen Fu. There is great scarcity of food supplies in the province [of Shan Si on account of long continued drought and the provincial (Tai Yuen) is almost deserted, the trades people having left on account of the disturbance caused and continued for months by the Boxer rebels who had invaded that province with the encouragement of Governor Yu. Their majesties, therefore, were obliged to proceed to Shen Si, where telegraphic communication with Shanghai and other parts of the Empire is opened and rapid communication with their majesties may therefore be carried on; this court and official business may be transacted more expeditiously by their presence in Shen Si rather than in Shan Si. The reasons for the temporary postponement of their majesties' return to Pekin are the presence of the allied forces there, on account of which solicitous fear is doubtless entertained, besides a dread of the outbreak of epidemic diseases which usually follow after great disturbances, destruction of property and military operations. It is hoped the Powers will be considerate in their judgment in this matter."

Afraid of Allied Forces.

The important feature of the message is the confession that the court is restrained by fear of the allied forces from returning to Pekin. The movement takes the Emperor and Empress Dowager about 300 miles further away from Pekin, though, according to the statements contained in the message by reason of direct telegraphic communication with Shanghai, the court practically will be nearer for purposes of negotiating with the outside world, than it was at Tai Yuen. Minister Wu has been informed also that Viceroy Yu, of the province just vacated by the court, has been impeached because of his anti-foreign tendencies, which is the first step toward his degradation. It is said that there are no Boxers in the newly chosen locality, so that the court will have thrown off the hostile influence recently surrounding it.

The only disquieting feature of the move comes from Japanese advices, stating that the new point of location is strongly fortified, which is some indication that the Imperial family is still in flight and is seeking stronger defences; but the friendly viceroys and Minister Wu do not share this view.

Question of Punishment.

The minister considers the question of punishments practically disposed of by the edict of the Emperor and the German and American notes exchanged last week. The only difficulty he apprehends is in case the foreign ministers seek to designate certain persons who shall be punished in addition to those the Government itself marks for punishment. Such a course by the ministers, he says, would be hard to comply with, but he looks to the sagacity of Li Hung Chang and Prince Ching to overcome any such difficulty.

As Bad as Boxers.

HONG KONG, October 8.—The town of San Chun is quiet this morning and the stores have been reopened. The rebels who attacked Sai Wan, near San Chun, Saturday, are believed to belong to the force of Triads which is proceeding westward, levying blackmail and recruiting. The missions in the Hinterland are safe.

Occupation of Shan Hai Kuan.

ST. PETERSBURG, October 8.—Admiral Alexieff, in reporting the occupation of Shan Hai Kuan, on the Gulf of Laio Tung, says:

"In accordance with an agreement of the admirals the forts have been divided among the different nations. The town has not been occupied, but the gates are guarded by artillery. The forts are nearly intact and the whole route from Pong Ken to Shan Hai Kuan is now occupied by the Russians, After the occupation of Shan Hai Kuan the Americans refused to further participate in the operations. Part of the Russian force is advancing northward."

Expedition Against Pao Ting Fu.

PEKIN, October 4, via Tien Tsin, October 7, and Shanghai, October 8.—The American troops will not participate in the expedition to Pao Ting Fu. General Chaffee has the assurance of Li Hung Chang that if the allies desire Pao Ting Fu, the Chinese will surrender that city. Li Hung Chang has given the same assurance to the other generals.

The Americans believe that revenge and military display are the only objects of the expedition and they hold that it will retard the restoration of peace.

The Russians are understood to have practically abandoned the railroad and to have stopped its reconstruction. General Chaffee favors the return of the railroad to its owners and its reconstruction and operation on a joint international basis.

The first reinforcements of German troops have arrived here.

Defeated Imperial Troops.

LONDON, October 8.—"Five thousand Triads," says a dispatch to the Daily Telegraph, from Canton, dated October 7th, "have defeated the Imperial troops and occupied several places between Ministers' bay and Deep bay. They are now moving southward. The viceroy to-day dispatched Admiral Ho and General Tong to oppose them."

FIRE CHIEFS' CONVENTION

Will Assemble in Charleston To-day—A Large Attendance.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHARLESTON, S. C., October 8.—Nearly five hundred fire chiefs, with their wives and daughters, are in the city to-night. To-morrow the convention of the International Association of Fire Chiefs will assemble. Among the parties already arrived are the "Fireman's Herald" party from New York, which arrived at 8.55 A. M., 103 strong, having made the 780 miles in twenty hours.

MARYLAND DEMOCRATS.

Mass Meeting in Baltimore—Thousands in Attendance—Addresses by Gov Stone, of Missouri, and Others.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

BALTIMORE, October 8.—Several thousand persons, among them many ladies, braved the elements tonight and attended the Democratic mass meeting at Music Hall. Rain fell in torrents during the early part of the evening. The attractions, as announced included Governor William J. Stone, of Missouri, former Senator A. P. Gorman of this State, and a number of well known local spell-binders. When Chairman James H. Smith called the meeting to order, he introduced James D. Richardson of Tennessee, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee. Mr. Richardson explained to the audience that he had visited Baltimore unexpectedly and was not prepared to make a speech, but stated that he had been requested to read to the assemblage a letter which had been received from "Maryland's favorite son," the Hon. Arthur P. Gorman, who, he said, was detained at home on a sick bed and was chaffing under the restraint which prevented his attendance at "this grand, glorious gathering of the Democracy of Maryland."

Mr. Gorman's letter was written to Murray Vandiver, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee of Maryland, from Laurel, the ex Senator's home, under date of October 8th.

Governor Stone was next introduced. "The letter of the former Senator from Maryland," he began, "is a complete answer to the calumnies that have been hurled against him. One blast from his bugle horn is equal to 10,000 men, for it is no disparagement to any other leader of the Democracy of Maryland to say that this man stands forth pre-eminent, not only as one of the stalwart leaders of the State, but of the entire nation." Governor Stone arraigned the Republican party for raising and expending an immense campaign fund, which he declared could be only used for immoral purposes.

BRITISH ARE JEALOUS.

France, Russia and Germany Alleged to Have Monopolized All Strategic Positions in China.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

LONDON, October 8.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Times, wiring October 7th, says:

"It is reported that French troops hold Lake Chiao, on the Lu Han railway. The Russians and Germans hold the Pei Tang forts and have also taken Tong Shan and the Kai Ping mines, thus monopolizing the coal supply in North China.

"It was expected that Count Von Waldersee would maintain an even balance between the powers, whereas, the actual result of the operation places all the strategic positions in the hands of other nations. A strong feeling prevails that the situaiton is daily becoming more gloomy."

TO MOVE COTTON.

Large Shipments of Money from the Treasury to Southern Points.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The shipments to the New Orleans, St. Louis and Chicago sub-treasuries for the movement of the cotton crop continues from the treasury. The shipment for to day was $400,000. On Saturday last the total shipments for this season amounted to $10,440,000, against $5,425,000 for the same period last year, showing an increase to nearly twice the latter amount. Of the total amount, New Orleans has received $6,540,000. The treasury officials regard the shipments as showing an unusually prosperous condition of affairs in the South.

DAVID B. HILL, OF NEW YORK.

Will Take an Active Part in the Campaign in the West.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHICAGO, October 8.—Former Senator David B. Hill, of New York, it is unofficially announced at Democratic National Headquarters in this city, will take an active part in the presidential campaign in the West. At the request of the Cook Democratic Committee, Senator Hill has consented to make an address at a meeting to be held in Chicago, October 13th. He will also be the speaker at the meeting of October 19th. Between these dates Senator Hill will make several addresses at various towns in Indiana.

TO WINTER IN PEKIN.

The Allies Storing Supplies for Six Months. Waldersee's Headquarters.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

PEKIN, October 3.—General Yamaguchi will retain 10,000 Japanese troops, 2,000 of them at Pekin and the others at Taku and along the lines of communications.

Eight thousand Germans will pass the winter in Pekin and fifteen hundred Russians. The number of British troops who will be retained has not been decided. Sir Alfred Gasalee will probably keep a brigade.

The allies are storing supplies for six months.

Count Von Waldersee's headquarters will be the building in the Imperial pleasure grounds, outside the Purple City.

AT ST. AUGUSTINE, FLA.

Serious Fight Between Whites and Negroes Timely Checked.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

JACKSONVILLE, Oct. 8.—A special to the Times-Union and Citizen, from St. Augustine, says:

"What threatened to terminate in a serious fight between a party of young white men and a number of colored men, was checked in the North City late last night by the timely arrival of the police. A young man was walking on San Marc avenue with two ladies when he was insulted by a negro, according to his own statement. A fight followed in which a score of white and colored men took part. Fence pickets were the weapons used, and some telling blows were dealt. City and county officials were soon on the spot and the riot was speedily settled."

GOOD PROSPECTS FOR SETTLEMENT

Miners' Convention Called to Consider Offer of Increase in Wages.

CESSATION OF HOSTILITIES.

Quiet Prevails Throughout the Anthracite Coal Regions—General Expectation That the Convention Will Decide to Accept Increase.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Oct. 8.—President Mitchell issued his call to day for the much-talked of miners' convention to consider the operators' offer of a ten per cent. increase in wages. The convention will be held at Scranton, and will open on Friday next. Representation in the convention will be on the basis of one delegate with one vote for each 100 persons on strike.

It is the general expectation that the decision of the convention will be to accept the increase and return to work. Quietness prevailed throughout the anthracite regions to day, the call for the convention being generally accepted as a signal for cessation of hostilities all around.

There were many expressions of satisfaction by miners and operators and by merchants and others in the mining section to-day over the prospects of an early settlement of the troubles.

The miners will have parades and mass meetings at Shamokin to-morow and at Scranton on Wednesday. President Mitchell will be in attendance and is expected to speak at both places.

Call for a Convention.

SHENANDOAH, PA., October 8.—President Mitchell to day issued a call for a convention of mine workers of the three districts comprising the anthracite field, to meet in Scranton, Pa., on Friday next.

The text of the convention call is as follows:

"In view of the fact that the mine operators have posted notices offering an advance in wages formerly paid, and believing it to be our duty to consult your wishes as to our future action, we deem it advisable to ask you to select delegates to represent you in convention.

"You are, therefore, notified that a convention will be held at Scranton, Pa., beginning Friday, October 12, at 10 A. M.

"The basis of representation will be one vote for each one hundred persons on strike, or, if desired, one delegate may represent as many as five hundred mine workers, but no delegate will be allowed to cast more than five votes.

"Each delegate should have credentials signed by the chairman and secretary of the meeting at which he is elected; and whenever possible, credentials should bear the seal of the local union."

THE GERMAN VIEW.

Peace Negotiations With China a Farce Under Present Conditions.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

BERLIN, October 8.—The somewhat optimistic view of the Chinese situation which prevailed in Germany last week has been unfavorably affected by the reports that the Chinese court has resolved to settle permanently at Si Ngan Fu, capital of the province of Shen Si. This the Berliner Tageblatt regards as "indisputable evidence that the Chinese court is as anti-foreign as ever."

"The failure of the court to return to Pekin," it says, "makes a farce of the Powers' peace negotiations, inasmuch as the Chinese government could annul the whole procedure at any moment by revoking the credentials of Prince Ching and Li Hung Chang."

Without claiming any official authority for its attitude, the Tageblatt comments favorably upon a proposal to declare Emperor Kwang Su deposed."
